Law of the Week (ALLOWING)

The Universal Law of Allowing means dropping all judgments and all emotional attachments to what others are, have, or do. This is quite different from being tolerant. Being tolerant is not liking what someone else is or does and holding emotion-laden, negative thoughts about them, but letting them be or do it any way. Practicing The Universal Law of Allowing requires granting to others the same rights you ask for yourself -- the right to be, have, and do whatever you choose. Here's one interpretation of that law:

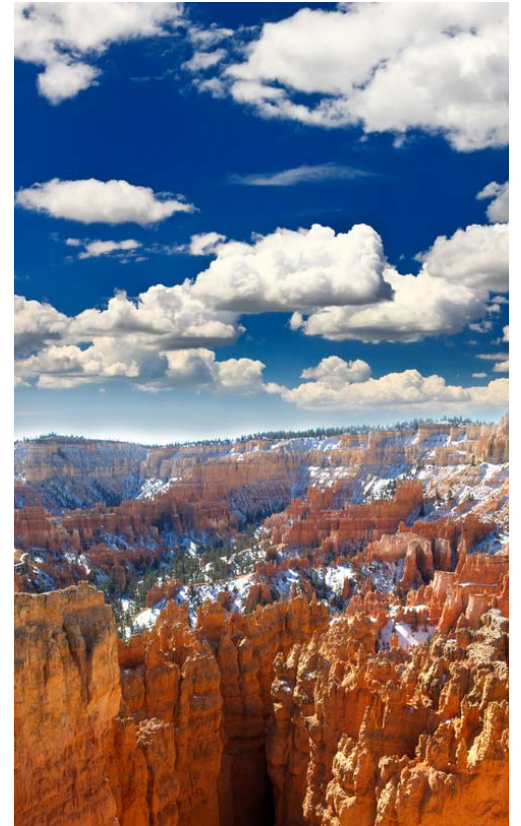

I am that I am and You are that which You are. I accept, honor, and respect you as you are. I honor, allow, support, and respect your right to be who you are, do as you do, and have whatever you have. I honor your right to live your life as you choose, to worship God, or not, as you choose. I honor those same rights in me and call for you to do likewise.

I honor the Golden Rule, "Do onto others as they would be done onto" and call for you to do likewise. As long as you avoid violating others, violating the rights of others or destroying our collective environment, I will honor your right to be, do, have, express, and experience whatever you choose.

Here's another way of expressing this law:
Love God, love your neighbor, and love yourself.

One way to practice the Law of Allowing:

Instead of making others wrong for who they are or what they do, become the observer and simply say, "That's something I'm simply not willing to accept in your own life." Then to allow the other person to be, have, or do as they will, without trying to fix anything, or change them, or make them wrong for being who they are, for having what they have, or for doing what they are doing.

How to apply Weekly Sermons to Our Lives

Rev. June Kilmer's sermon titled “Evaluate our Lives and Make Changes” So much that is in our heads, thoughts are living things. Change is certain in our lives, things that once showed stability is now in a state of flux. Change happens for the right reasons. Some are stuck with a certain way of doing things, however, we must know ourselves and be open for change. Come to terms with our evolving experiences and see change as a positive time to dream. Live a life of grace and have the will and willingness to live each day.

Have the courage to awake to choice and chose to let go of the past. Pay attention to the seen and unseen. Everything we do is a learning experience. Learn to awaken the way within. Dreams do not begin unless we do the work. Your attitude determines our altitude. So tap into your passion. Take time to connect with your own inner self. Take risks and have an action plan. Risk converts opportunity into a reality. Risk is a catalyst to transforming. To grow is to risk. Failure can be defeated or defeating words form belief and belief form action.

Take control of your thoughts. Walk on your will not your legs. Your vision is your higher wisdom, find ways through meditation, the flow knows where to go. Know that happiness is a journey. Make the Universe your partner. Go with the flow and you will be with the Universe. We should view ourselves as an artist reviews their work, rework yourself constantly. Keep the infant alive within you in order to hear God create harmony find your song and your rhythm. God leaves it to us to find our way. You can receive many channels, that our mind allows us to receive and tune in to the word of God. Remember that the road to success is always under construction. _____ Create your world with the Universe's help. Embrace change as a good thing for you.

Co-Creators With God! – by Rev. Sandra Pfortmiller, NST

Be that unlimited child of the Unlimited Universe and let the Law and Creator help you to manifest all the good God has for you. Transform your life by visualizing Love and Light, by dreaming of peace and joy, by working to send positive images into the ethers. God expresses through your mind and the Law. As a co-creator, stay conscious of that which you desire to create. Be open to receive it and put your trust in the power of God by releasing control of how, when, where it must manifest. We live in our consciousness, which means we create as we think.

Each soul touches into the center within to discover their true desire and intuitively to know what is right. Practice being here, now in this present moment using the mind, the Law and Love to evolve to the newness of creation (into wholeness.) The self needs to express. Life is a spiritual experience that we create on our soul's eternal journey. A co-creator must allow his or her world to shift for creation is action, force, change expression, wonderful freshness and exciting horizons.

The imagination is an inward feeling that encourages the will and makes the effects creative. We do not create without using our imagination. Imagine your dream and draw it toward you with each visualization, then accept your success and prepare for its accomplishment. There is an orderly sequence to Natural Law so life will become prepared to meet the goal you desire. One thing leads to another, step by step toward to final pattern of completion. This may not be evident to you until you gaze back and the opportunities become clear. It is so wonderful to see the invisible Universe at work, to know we have a silent partner that wants what we want, and that we can be a co-creator to bring it to fruition.

The first step in creation is of course the seed. When a farmer plants seeds for carrots, he knows he will get carrots. If something else begins to grow in the garden it is removed for it is carrots that have been planted. The farmer trusts the Law of the Universe that what was planted will be received. so it is in life with our thoughts, goals and desires. Plant a dream, then remove any other conflicting thoughts and KNOW that the Law will grow that which you have planted. If you do not sow what you want you will not reap what you want. Universal Law is the creative medium which is receptive to our dreams and desires and acts automatically to bring about our inner thoughts.

What do you dream about? What does your imagination create that makes you feel joyous? Don't wait until you have done this or that to begin, start where you are now. Center yourself. Clearly set an image of the outcome you desire to perceive in your mind; hold it there, write it out, make a song about it and sing it, design a poster, affirm it; but keep it at the forefront of your thoughts. Then trust, accept, be grateful, visualize your bliss when it is a reality and allow Divine Mind and Natural Law to attract it to you. Follow your intuition, your hunches of the moment so that God may work for you, through you. Be alive, be a positive co-creator of your life! Remember: “With God All Things are Possible.” There is nothing too great or too small for the Creative Power. There is One Power back of everything, so whatever exists is this Power, part of the All the perfect Unit and available to the other parts. The Mind always gives back the seed thought that is planted. As we harvest our thoughts, we create our lives. “As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he.”

Soon a new Millennium will be born. These last two years are a time of growth, of completion, of preparing new dreams so when the feature premiere arrives we will be open for the newness of the next century. I pray you all have a great co-creating peace, love and joy.
